

Who is such an individual

<https://www.essayhave.com/research-paper-writing-service.html>

Who is an individual? This word is often mentioned in the literature and in conversational speech. However, far from everyone knows what is meant by this concept or simply confuse it with other terms.

In this article we will tell you what is an individual.

What does individual mean

Individual (lat. Individuum - indivisible) - a separate organism, with autonomy inherent in it, in particular, a person as a single representative of the human race. Under the Individual implies "man in general."

It is worth noting that this term is actively used in biology, being synonymous with the concepts of "organism" or "individual". Thus, the individual is called any living organism: amoeba, dog, elephant, man, etc. And yet, under the individual, the person is most often meant.